

Fig. 5-5. (a) Heliotropium incanum: long and slender trichomes of type 2 (s); (b) Hilgeria hypogaea: trichome of type 3 (sg) on pedestal of distinct, enlarged cells; (c) Heliotropium rariflorum: trichome of type 3 (sg); (d) H. mandonii: trichome of type 4 (co, tc) of different lengths; (e) H. amplexicaule: trichome of type 4 (co, tc) with strongly reduced trichome tip; (f) H. europaeum: trichome of type 5 (ph) with sharply curved trichome tip; (g) H. suaveolens: trichome of type 5 (ph) with erect trichome tip; (h) H. paronychioides: trichome of type 4 (tc) with well developed trichome tip and indistinctly stalked cystolith; (i) H. amplexicaule: trichome of type 4 (tc) with reduced trichome tip and distinctly stalked cystolith; (j) H. giessii: trichome of type 5 (ph) with cup shaped mineralization at the bulbous base. Method of observation: (a-g) SEM; (h-j) LM. Scale bars: (h-j) 10 µm; (d, f) 50 µm; (a-c, e, g) 100 µm.