

Gene signatures and functional analysis of Follicular B helper T cells

Inaugural-Dissertation
to obtain the academic degree

Doctor rerum naturalium
(Dr. rer. nat.)

Submitted to the Department of Biology, Chemistry, and Pharmacy

Freie Universität, Berlin

by

Mohammed Ata Ur Rasheed

from Hyderabad, India

May, 2006

1st Reviewer: Prof. Dr. Fritz G. Rathjen

2nd Reviewer: Dr. Dr. habil. Martin Lipp

Date of defence: 12th October, 2006

TO MY PARENTS

Acknowledgements

I am grateful to Dr. Martin Lipp, for inviting me to his lab, giving me an opportunity to be a part of his ambitious project and introducing me to the beauty of chemokine receptors that will remain throughout my life. His guidance and discussions were a great source of inspiration during the course of my work. Furthermore, I wish to thank him for providing me encouragement and freedom to attend courses and meetings that have had tremendous impact on my career.

I express my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. Gerd Müller for sharing his enormous wisdom in immunology and fine technical skills with lots of patience throughout my training. He has been a kind supervisor who was always ready to discuss and maneuver this project during difficult times. He taught me the most meticulous aspects of designing experiments and analyzing scientific data. I also wish to thank him for improving my writing skills and software training.

My special thanks for Prof. Dr. Fritz G. Rathjen for kindly accepting and evaluating my dissertation.

I would like to thank all the donors of tissue specimens without which this study wouldn't have been possible. I would also like to extend my gratitude to all the healthcare staff at otorhinolaryngologic departments of Helios Klinikum, and Unfallkrankenhaus, Berlin. .

Thanks to Dr. Hans-Peter Rahn for providing the sorting facility whenever it was required, even at midnight or on weekends.

I wish to thank Daniela Keyner for all her patience in arranging administrative formalities before arrival and during my stay in Berlin.

I also would like to thank Andra Eisenmann and Christine Kruse for their technical assistance.

Many thanks to my present and former colleagues Sven Golfier, Antje Wengner, Nanthakumar Thirunarayanan, Frank Wilde, Uta Höpken, Tobias Schulze, Ariel Achtman, Sven Hartmann, Kerstin Krüger, Dagmar Breitfeld, Felix Cifire, Jemina Benga, Phillip Reiterer, Christian Ried, Jenny Gorsch, Thilo Mokros, and others not mentioned here for their help and support in the lab.

My family, specially my parents for having taken all the pains on their own and providing me constant support and encouragement when I was pursuing my career.

My dearest wife, Kausar for her endless support, love and always sharing my happy and sad moments.

To all my friends in Berlin, especially Debashish Das and Anand Ranjan for creating a stimulating atmosphere - from science to cuisine inside the campus.