I would like to thank my advisor Prof. Dr. Dr. Manfred Schweiger for his support allowing me to do my thesis work in the lab of Prof. Günter Blobel at the Rockefeller University in New York, NY, USA.

I would like to thank Prof. Günter Blobel for giving me the great opportunity to work with him. The countless helpful discussions and his support were inspiring throughout this work and very much appreciated.

Roland Beckmann has been a great supervisor for the first half of this work. I would like to thank him for his support and help without which, this work would not have been possible.

I would like to thank the members of the Blobel lab that provided not only a professional scientific but also a personal atmosphere that made working in the lab a pleasure. I'd like to especially thank Elias Coutavas, Lucy Pemberton, Neris Bonifaci, Susana Chaves, Sean "Ricci" Campell, Steve Lawrie, Tarik Soliman, Aurelian Radu, Evette Elison, Lourdes Quiroigico, Daniel Schmidt, and Thomas Schwartz. Help and support has been provided also by Seth Darst and Natacha Opalka from the Rockefeller University, Christian Spahn, Pawel Penczek, Bob Grasucci, Dean Leith, and Joachim Frank from the Wadsworth Center in Albany, NY and Mike Lewis and David Stokes from the New York University, NY.

Financial support from the Rockefeller University was greatly appreciated.
